Celebrating a Milestone

For 20 years, Inner City Visions (ICV) has worked alongside young people, families and community partners in South Los Angeles to create opportunity, strengthen communities and help build brighter futures.

The Brighter Futures Luncheon will bring together community leaders, businesses, partners and friends to celebrate two decades of impact while looking ahead to the next chapter of ICV's work.

This inaugural fundraising luncheon is also an opportunity to introduce new supporters to ICV and build relationships that can help sustain its work for years to come.

Who We Are

Inner City Visions (ICV) is a 501(c)(3) community-based organization founded in 2007 in the epicenter of South Los Angeles. We engage with what is statistically the most vulnerable population of at-risk and exploited youth and provide solutions to their ever-evolving hardships. Combatting human trafficking and reducing violence in South Los Angeles, ICV is the only non-government organization in the area that is built on a history of long-standing community relationships and has an in-depth understanding of how youth become vulnerable to exploitation and recruitment into the commercial sex trade.
